ABOUT FP CANADA

A national professional body working in the public interest, FP Canada™ is dedicated to championing better financial wellness for all Canadians by certifying professional financial planners and leading the advancement of professional financial planning in Canada.

At a high level, FP Canada sets the strategic direction for professional financial planning in Canada. FP Canada also achieves its mandate through two distinct divisions. Through the FP Canada Standards Council™ division, FP Canada establishes financial planning standards and enforces those standards among FP Canada certificants—Qualified Associate Financial Planner™ professionals and Certified Financial Planner® professionals. Through the FP Canada Institute™ division, which is dedicated to elevating the practice of financial planning, FP Canada provides professional education, tools, and resources to help financial planners meet the needs of all Canadians.

FP Canada operates in all provinces except Québec; however, through a strategic partnership with Institut québécois de planification financière (IQPF), the only body in Québec authorized to confer financial planning diplomas, FP Canada's standards are adopted nationally. There are about 17,000 CFP professionals and about 1,900 QAFP professionals (as at December 31, 2021), who meet FP Canada's standards.

FP CANADA STANDARDS COUNCIL COMPETENCY PROFILE

The FP Canada Standards Council Competency Profile (the “Competency Profile”) identifies the core knowledge, skills and abilities required for competent financial planning practice. It reflects what FP Canada certificants are expected to be able to do today for their clients and sets the bar for the competencies required for the profession over the next several years.

The Competency Profile has four direct applications for FP Canada: examination blueprints, Core and Advanced Curriculum education approval, work experience evaluation and Continuing Education requirements.

Structure of the Competency Profile

What Is a “Competency”?

The ability to perform a particular job function effectively is called a “competency”. However, a competency is not simply a job-related task. It also includes the ability to apply knowledge, skills, attitudes and judgments in a manner that ensures the appropriate performance of the job.

Competencies are a combination of:

- Activities—the “functional” elements of a competency or the drivers of actual tasks performed as FP Canada certificants move through the financial planning process; and
- Skills and technical knowledge—the “foundational” elements of a competency that include the behaviours and required knowledge that support achievement of the financial planning tasks.

By defining competencies in this way, FP Canada recognizes the importance of the underlying elements of competence.

Functional Drivers of Competencies

The functional drivers of the competencies consist of two major elements:

- Financial Planning Areas: the areas of focus in which FP Canada certificants are expected to be able to address different client goals and financial issues; and
- Financial Planning Functions: the more broadly defined, general activities common to all financial planning areas.

Financial Planning Areas

The following six areas, together with Fundamental Financial Planning Practices, comprise the whole of competence as a financial planner:

- Financial Management;
- Investment Planning;
- Insurance and Risk Management;
- Tax Planning;

- Retirement Planning; and
- Estate Planning and Legal Aspects.

Fundamental Financial Planning Practices represent general competencies that are pervasive across all financial planning areas. These competencies relate to the integration and interrelationships among the financial planning areas. With every client engagement, the Fundamental Financial Planning Practices are essential building blocks of competent performance.

Financial Planning Functions

At the most general level, financial planning consists of three basic functions:

1. Collection

- Gathers the client's information:
- Gathering both quantitative and qualitative information.
- Identifying relevant facts and documentation.
- Preparing and organizing information in a way that allows for appropriate analysis.

2. Analysis

- Identifying issues and opportunities.
- Performing required calculations.
- Developing projections.
- Preparing and assessing the resulting information to identify and evaluate appropriate strategies.

3. Recommendation

- Develops recommendations to help optimize the client's situation:
- Developing recommendations, in order of priority, that help meet the client's personal goals, needs and priorities.

Professional Skills

Professional skills describe the ability to act in a manner that is constructive, collaborative and responsive to the needs of clients and colleagues. Professional skills refer to the non-technical competencies expected of members of a profession. They are a key foundational element to the application of financial planning competencies.

Professional skills describe how FP Canada certificants are expected to behave and interact with clients and others and are inherent to being a competent financial planner. They are transferable competencies that apply to most situations and, in fact, most professions.

Professional skills are categorized as follows:

- Critical Thinking Skills;
- Interpersonal and Relationship Skills;
- Communication Skills; and

- Teamwork and Collaboration Skills.

These skills form the foundation for financial planning as a profession.

FP CANADA FINANCIAL PLANNING BODY OF KNOWLEDGE

The FP Canada Financial Planning Body of Knowledge \(FP-BoK\) describes the knowledge expectations for QAFP and CFP professionals and comprises 12 technical topic areas:

1. Financial Planning Profession and Financial Services Industry Regulation
2. Financial Analysis
3. Credit and Debt
4. Registered Retirement Plans
5. Government Benefit Plans
6. Registered Education and Disability Plans
7. Economics
8. Investments
9. Taxation
10. Law
11. Insurance
12. Human Behaviour

All students on the path to QAFP and CFP certification study from the same FP-BoK; however, students on the path to CFP certification learn from an expanded body of knowledge and are therefore required to study for a longer period of time than QAFP professionals. Thus, CFP professionals gain greater and deeper technical knowledge than QAFP professionals to allow them to serve clients with the most complex financial situation.

COMPLEXITY CONTINUUM

It is the complexity of the client situation that influences the depth of technical knowledge required. The Complexity Continuum is provided as a general guide to what is meant by complexity. In combination, the factors identified on the left, with a less complex client situation could be capably addressed by a QAFP™. The factors identified on the right, with a more complex client situation, in combination, could be capably addressed by a CFP® professional.

In between, depending on the degree of complexity, the client situation may be addressed by a QAFP professional autonomously or in with consultation with, or by or referral to, a CFP professional, or appropriate specialists.

| Less Complex (QAFP and CFP Professionals) | Highly Complex (CFP Professionals) |
|--|--|
| Financial Planning goals or needs are well defined and established ; they are typical and straightforward (e.g., buying a home, retirement in 10 years, child education in 15 years, paying down debt, etc.) | Financial Planning goals or needs are not well defined or established or are in transition ; they are intricate, multi-faceted, less typical (e.g., buying a home in the U.S., forced retirement, saving for a special needs child, etc.) |
| Appropriate solution is clear | May be a number of suitable solutions to meet client needs; appropriate solutions are less clear |
| Limited integration required – while some integration may be required across all financial planning areas, significant integration is required across a maximum of three financial planning areas | Significant integration may be required across all six financial planning areas |
| Limited cash flow trade offs may be required to meet goals or needs | Significant cash flow trade offs may be required to meet goals or needs |
| Assets held individually | Assets held in a trust or corporation |
| Client is an individual | Client is a business owner |
| Risk of negative outcome is low e.g., if poor choice is made between an individual or group RRSP) | Risk of negative outcome is high (e.g., if poor choice is made between the pension and commuted value of the pension) |

KEY REQUIREMENTS FOR ADVANCED CURRICULUM COURSES

FP Canada approves Advanced Curriculum Courses offered by post-secondary educational institutions and organizations whose mandate is public education at a post-secondary level.

Advanced Curriculum Content

The Advanced Curriculum is required for those on the path to CFP certification and must provide the necessary skills and knowledge required to practice advanced financial planning. Course content must cover the advanced FP-BoK topics required for CFP certification. The Advanced Curriculum must include both theory and the application of theory to complex financial planning scenarios. Textbooks should include appropriate financial planning content, examples and cases for practice purposes.

Human Behaviour & Professional Skills

While FP Canada's Professional Education Programs teach students how to understand and apply key facets of human behaviour and fundamental professional skills in the areas of communication, critical thinking and managing client relationships, educators may also lay the foundation for students to develop these essential skills and provide the opportunity for students to apply these skills within the Advanced Curriculum courses.

Instructor Credentials

The quality of the learning environment can be highly influenced by the quality of the educator. Instructors should therefore have the appropriate qualifications, skills and experience to ensure that all learning outcomes are achievable for a diverse student population.

Instructors in Advanced Curriculum Courses must have CFP certification and/or a graduate level professional designation in the technical fields being taught.

Practical experience is also preferred. FP Canada may grant exceptions in cases in where instructors have a combination of relevant experience, credentials and education. In such cases, educators must provide an explanation of the instructor's qualifications.

First-time Applications

First-time applicants for approval of Advanced Curriculum Courses must submit samples of course content to demonstrate a competency-based approach to the curriculum. Renewal applications are exempt from this requirement.

ACADEMIC MISCONDUCT

The FP Canada Standards Council is responsible for ensuring that FP Canada certificants meet rigorous certification standards and demonstrate the highest level of professionalism, including an attestation to abide by the Standards of Professional Responsibility. Being found by an FP Canada-approved educator to have breached that educator's code of ethics or code of conduct or to have engaged in academic misconduct is a Presumptive Bar to new or continued certification with FP Canada.

FP Canada has agreements with several education partners pursuant to which those academic partners have agreed to report findings of academic misconduct to FP Canada. We encourage all educators to enter into such agreements with FP Canada to protect the integrity of the education program and the certification.

Where such agreements are not already in place and where an educator determines that a student has engaged in conduct that breaches the educator's academic code of ethics or code of conduct, we encourage the institution to report the finding to FP Canada. Where possible, such reports should include the specific finding of academic misconduct, the name of the student, the sanctions imposed by the educator and copies of any relevant documents (redacted as appropriate to protect the identities of third parties).

Reporting student misconduct assists FP Canada in its efforts to ensure that individuals who they certify meet FP Canada's ethical conduct standards. Such reporting also serves to guard the trust that Canadians place in QAFP and CFP professionals. Working together to guard this trust in FP Canada designations benefits planners, educators, industry and all Canadians.

Review and Approval

FP Canada will begin reviewing applications upon receipt of the application, all supporting documents and payment of the application fee.

Application review can take up to three months. If approval is required within a specific timeframe, please inform FP Canada upon submission of application.

Upon completion of the review process, FP Canada will email the results of the assessment to the Responsible Person. Two outcomes are possible:

Approved

If FP Canada determines that all criteria have been satisfactorily met, it will approve the application. The approval will be effective for a three-year period (the approval period).

Pending Approval

If FP Canada determines that all criteria have not been satisfactorily met, FP Canada will advise the institution of the deficiencies and will work with the educator to identify the changes required for approval.

MAINTAINING APPROVAL

Annual Update

Educators must immediately advise FP Canada of any significant changes to the approved courses. Significant changes include structure of courses to meet, course codes, course outlines and instructors.

FP Canada will send an annual electronic request for confirmation that the Advanced Curriculum Courses continue to meet FP Canada education requirements.

Renewal Application

FP Canada will provide six months' notice to educators of the approaching expiration of their curriculum approval. The reminder email will include their application to facilitate renewal.

If, upon review of an application, FP Canada determines that the educator no longer meets the education requirements, FP Canada will provide a transition period to allow the educator to correct the deficiencies. During this period, approved status will remain in effect.
